| Would it be possible to have a transition effect. When a menu item is clicked on, can the logo show on the page (rotating or otherwise) and then the target page be shown. This is just to add a little bit of motion and to get people used to our logo. |              |                        |            |
